CHAPTER I

Before you begin

The goal of the game is to bring your opponent's Force Field down to zero.

40	28	12
CARDS IN THE DECK	ENTITIES	RELICS

COPIES

No more than 2 identical copies of the same card.

No more than 3 pairs in a deck.

The official maximum number of copies for each single card, by name, is listed in the updated list on the official website nyfurion.com.

THE FORCE FIELD

Each player starts the game with 40 points of Force Field.

Your Force Field goes down when you take an attack, and it can go up or down through card effects.

HOW YOU LOSE

You lose the game when your Force Field reaches zero, or when your deck runs out.

CHAPTER II

THE CARDS

1. NUMBER
   The card's number in the collection.
2. SYMBOL
   The faction the card belongs to.
3. NAME
   The name of the card.
4. TITLE AND FACTION
   The character's title and, on the right, its faction.
5. EFFECT
   What the card does, and when.
6. MT
   The Entity's strength, from 0 to 10.
7. RARITY
   For example Common, Uncommon, Rare.

THE ONLY NUMBER

Every Entity has a single value: its MT, from 0 to 10. In a clash the higher MT always wins. The MT printed on the card is its starting value: some Entity and Relic effects can raise or lower it.

THE VALUE OF A LOW MT

A low MT does not mean that a card is weak. Entities with a low MT can have effects that make up for it: raising their own MT, weakening enemy Entities or strengthening your other cards.

Played at the right moment, they can be just as decisive as an Entity with a high MT.

CHAPTER III

The Field

- Entities · on the bottom row, up to 4 on the field. You can deploy one per turn, or more if a card's effect allows it.
- Relics · above the Entities, up to 3, face up or face down.
- Deck · face down, next to the field. You draw your cards from here; if it runs out, you lose the game.
- Resources · on the right, next to the last Entity. Cards that leave the field go here, and effects can bring them back to your hand or into play.
- Seal · at the end of the Relic row, sideways, above the Resources. Cards removed from the game go here and can no longer be used.

YOUR SIDE OF THE FIELD

Each player has their own side of the field, with their own Entities, Relics, deck, Resources and Seal.

CHAPTER IV

THE TURN

STARTING THE GAME

Each player draws 5 cards from their own deck: this is the opening hand. There is no limit to the number of cards you can hold in your hand.

At the start of each of your turns you draw 1 card: this is the only required action.

After drawing, you may deploy an Entity, place Relics and attack in any order you like, even alternating them. You can do all of them, only some, or none.

AN EXAMPLE

You attack with one Entity, then deploy a new Entity, then attack again with another Entity, even the one that has just entered the field.

ONE ENTITY PER TURN

Each turn you can deploy no more than one Entity. You can have up to 4 on the field at the same time.

You can deploy more Entities in the same turn only if an Entity's or a Relic's effect allows it.

CHAPTER V

ATTACKING

WHEN YOU CAN ATTACK

Attacks become possible when each player has at least 2 Entities on the field.

From that moment on, the first attack belongs to the player who started the game second.

NO WAITING

An Entity can attack on the very turn it enters the field, whatever its MT, unless it is blocked by the effect of an enemy Relic or Entity.

ONE ATTACK PER TURN

Each Entity can attack only once per turn. On the following turn it can attack again.

The exception is any Entity, Relic or other card effect that allows multiple attacks.

CHAPTER VI

THE CLASH

When you attack, you choose which enemy Entity to strike, unless an Entity's or a Relic's effect says otherwise. The two Entities face each other and their MT are compared.

MT 8

MT 6

8 ◆ 6		You win the clash. The enemy Entity leaves the field and your opponent's Force Field loses the difference: 8 − 6 = 2.
6 = 6		Void clash. Both Entities leave the field. Nobody loses and nobody takes damage.
8 ◆ —		Direct attack. If your opponent has no Entity on the field, their Force Field loses the attacker's MT: −8.

REMEMBER

It also works the other way round: if the attacker has the lower MT, it is the attacking Entity that leaves the field, and the attacker's Force Field loses the difference.

The printed MT is the starting value: rare Entity or Relic effects can change it before the clash is resolved.

CHAPTER VII

Relics

All Relics are of the same kind: the text on each one explains what it does. When you place one, you choose whether to set it face up or face down.

FACE UP

FACE DOWN

THE MOTHER RULE

You can have no more than 3 Relics on the field, face up and face down together.

A face-down Relic cannot be turned over on the turn you placed it, and it still takes up one of the 3 slots.

WHEN TO USE RELICS

You can use your Relics at any moment of the game.

CHAPTER VIII

Destiny

Destiny is not a card and is not part of the deck. It can be used only once in the whole game.

DESTINY

HOW IT WORKS

When your opponent declares an attack, before the MT are compared, you can call Destiny.

The Entities in your hand are placed on the field face down, and your opponent picks one of them blindly: that Entity will defend you.

1. The chosen Entity is turned face up and defends with its own MT.
2. You decide when to call Destiny. You can also simply let your opponent believe you will.
3. The attacker cannot back out: once Destiny has been called, the clash takes place with the chosen Entity.

ONLY ONCE

Once used, Destiny never becomes available again: the moment you play it matters as much as the Entity that enters the field.

CHAPTER IX

Resources and Seal

When a card leaves the field it does not disappear: it ends up in one of these two zones.

THE RESOURCES

Cards that leave the field go to the Resources zone.

During the game the Resources are a precious reserve: Entity and Relic effects can bring these cards back to your hand or straight into play. This makes them a key zone for both players.

THE SEAL

When an effect removes a card from the game, the card goes to the Seal: it stays sealed away from the field and can no longer be used for the rest of the game.

HOW CARDS LEAVE THE FIELD

An Entity leaves the field when it loses a clash, when the clash is void, or through the effect of an Entity or a Relic.

SUMMARY

ALL THE RULES

DECK AND GAME

- Every deck has 40 cards: 28 Entities and 12 Relics.
- No more than 2 identical copies of the same card. No more than 3 pairs in a deck. The official maximum for each card is in the updated list on nyfurion.com.
- Opening hand of 5 cards. At the start of each turn you draw 1 card. There is no hand size limit.
- You start with 40 points of Force Field, which go up and down through card effects and attacks taken.
- You lose when your Force Field reaches zero or when your deck runs out.

TURN AND FIELD

- You can deploy one Entity per turn, or more only if a card's effect allows it, and keep up to 4 on the field.
- You can have up to 3 Relics on the field, face up or face down, and use them at any moment.
- After drawing, deploying, placing Relics and attacking are optional and can be done in any order.

ATTACK AND CLASH

- Attacks begin when each player has at least 2 Entities on the field. The first attack belongs to the player who started second.
- An Entity can attack from the turn it enters, unless an enemy effect blocks it, and once per turn, unless an effect allows multiple attacks.
- You choose the target, unless an effect says otherwise. If your opponent has no Entity, you strike their Force Field directly.
- The higher MT always wins: the defeated Entity leaves the field and its player loses the difference from their Force Field.
- With equal MT the clash is void: both Entities leave the field and nobody takes damage.

ZONES AND DESTINY

- Cards that leave the field go to the Resources. Cards removed from the game go to the Seal and can no longer be used.
- Destiny is used once per game: your opponent blindly picks the face-down Entity that defends you, and cannot call off the attack.
